Newegg.com LANfest 2K5 Casemod Contest

Saturday, July 16, 2005

PASADENA, Calif. --Newegg.com is kicking off a monthly casemod competition with a special contest at LANfest 2K5 on July 30 - 31. Winners will receive some of the latest PC gaming hardware from AMD, Logitech, d-Link and AOpen.

Participants will show off their creative case designs and modifications to fellow gamers and casemod industry icons Paul Capello and Jeffrey Stephenson who will serve as guest judges. Paul and Jeffrey will be available all weekend long to also offer expert advice and show off some of their most famous creations.

Casemod entries will be judged in five categories: Creativity, Neatness, Artistic, Functionality and "Wow" Factor.

- Prizes for the winners:
- 1st: 7800GT + AMD 4000 + AOpen XC Cube MZ855-II Desktop Computer + Logitech MX518 Gaming Mouse
 - 2nd: 7800GT + d-Link Gaming Router + Logitech MX518 Gaming Mouse
 - 3rd: 7800GT + Logitech MX518 Gaming Mouse

Judge Paul Capello, creator of the legendary Doom 3: Project Mars City casemod and co-author of "Extreme PC Mods" will exhibit Project Nighthawk, the F-117A Nighthawk fighter-inspired masterpiece. Judge Jeffrey L. Stephenson known for his innovative humidor casemod series will bring the Machine Age, a 30s Art Deco style mod. He will also bring Le Bouton, a case with a retro stereo component feel that has been optimized for fragging.

A $20 BYOC (Bring Your Own Computer) pass is required to enter the contest at LANfest 2K5.

ATI, Microsoft, Canon and AMD are the primary sponsors for LANfest 2K5.

Modders that are unable to make LANfest can enter the monthly contests beginning in August. The announcement and additional information about the regular monthly casemod contest will be available at www.newegg.com in the coming weeks.

Information and registration for LANfest 2K5 are available at: www.newegg.com/Lanfest2k5/index.htm
